LIVE NEWS FROM NEW YORK.

Significance of Canovas' Death to the cause of Cuba Libre Explained by Senator Palma.
Enthusiasm at the New York Cuban Delegation. An Idea of the Coming Great Library. Novel competition for the Best Plans. Marvelous Perfection of Postal Facilities. A Private Post Office at each House.

[SPECIAL TO THE TOWNSMAN]
NEW YORK, AUG. 11, 1897.

News of the assassination of Prime Minister Canovas del Castillo has caused great excitement among the Cuban Colony in this city, and particularly at the Cuban Delegation on New Street.
For several months past nothing has disturbed the routine work at the New York headquarters, but information of Canovas' death, bearing as it does a vital significance to the Patriot's cause, immediately drew all the influential Cubans to the dingy suite of offices where so much is done toward shaping the course of the war. When I visited the Junta as it is commonly called, the handsome Cuban office boy was busy trotting to and from the inner offices with cards of visitors. The place was all abum with enthusiastic talk, and a renewed fire shone in the eyes of these resolute men.

An influential member of the delegation told me that the death of Can-ovas was one of the most important events in the struggle for Cuban liberty.
Canovas resolutely stood out against every effort to end the war. When the so-called reforms were proposed, he said: "Guns and bullets and not reforms are what the Cubans will get."
Canovas stood behind Weyler's reign of terror and Canovas' death means Weyler's certain recall. The following statement of T. Estrada Palmer to a reporter is of importance as presenting intelligent and authoritative views as to the results of Canovas' death upon the Cuban cause:

"While I deprecate the action of the Italian Anarchist as one which deprives him of the sympathy of all honest persons, I recognize that the cause of Cuba will greatly benefit by the death of the man who represented extreme resistance and was in a position to brave public opinion as no other Spaniard would attempt to do. No impartial judge can have words of praise for Canovas del Castillo. He was responsible for every act of cruelty and barbarity committed by Weyler in Cuba. When Weyler was sent to the island, Canovas was well aware of the antecedents of the man, and he was not ignorant that true to his past, Wey-ler has renewed, as Captain General of Cuba, the series of crimes which he perpetrated while a subordinate of that tiger whom the Spanish called the Count de Valmaseda. It was in Canovas' name Weyler murdered defenseless women and children. Therefore Rinaldi, or whatever his name may be did not kill an angel but a monster. . . .
If the various factions should unite under the leadership of the heretofore dissentient Sivila, and he were appointed Premier I must recall that this politician declared that if he became persuaded that the Cubans as a people were hostile to Spain he would favor abandonment of the island. On the other hand if Sagosta came into power it is probable that he would immediately grant autonomy to Cuba, but the Cubans are not fighting for autonomy but for absolute freedom."

Plans for the coming New York Public Library, which is to be the largest library in the United States, are well along toward definite adoption. Every effort is being made to secure designs for the most beautiful and convenient building which it is possible for human ingenuity to conceive. A unique method has been employed in order to attain this object. Two prize competitions were arranged for the purpose.
Among the eighty-eight contestants to enter the preliminary contest were included many of the most eminent architects in the country. The judges of this large competition were, Prof. William R. Ware, of Columbia University, Bernard R. Green, constructor of the new Congressional Library at Washington, and Dr. J. S. Billings, director of the New York Public Library.
Twelve contestants were awarded prizes of $400 each. Six of the best of these were assigned to enter the final competition with six other eminent architects under special invitation of the committee. Each competitor is allowed $800 to cover the cost of preparing the detailed plans. These must all be submitted before November 1st. This final competition from which the plan for the building will be selected, will be judged by a jury of seven, containing three practicing architects besides the library authorities. Immediately after their decision the plans will be turned over to the builders and the work of construction will begin. The building is to cost $1,700,000 exclusive of all accessories, such as furniture, heating, lighting shelving, architect's fees, etc. It will be erected on the site of the present reservoir, fronting on Bryant Park on one side and Fifth Avenue on the other, and extending the length of the Block between Forty-first and Forty-second Streets. The general stipulations provide for a building 482 by 455 feet. The "stack room" on the first floor must provide for 1, 250,000 volumes, with a maximum capacity for 3,000,000 volumes, as occasion is sure to require large additions to the first number, which represents the collection with which the library will open. The reading rooms must contain 26,800 square feet and accommodate 800 readers. Both they and the stack rooms must have light on three sides. The periodical and newspaper rooms must contain 4,000 square feet, the patents room 3,500 square feet, the public documents room 4,000 square feet and the childrens room 4,000 square feet. In addition to these rooms there will be a library for the blind, a music room, a manuscript room, a map room, a Bible room, lunch room and large cloak and bicycle rooms.

The Library will contain the large Stuart collection of paintings. The interior will be largely composed of marble, mosaics and polished granite.

Rapid strides toward the perfection of the New York postal facilities have been made during the past few years.
Within a comparatively limited time, the delivery and collection system has been almost revolutionized. With the advent of the surface cable roads came the mail cars in which mail is sorted and transported from one post-office station to another, and from these stations to and from the main office.
This innovation contributed much toward facilitating a quick service in a city where such a service is made difficult by long longitudinal distances.
After the mail cars, came the collecting wagons. These are driven from one street post box to another, and as fast as the mail is collected from the boxes it is classified by clerks inside the wagons. A new system of private mail boxes has just been installed, which bids fair to largely supersede the old plan of corner lamp-post boxes.
By this system each house becomes a private post-office. If you desire to mail a letter, you do not need to leave your house. You simply drop it in the front door box which is of steel and of tasteful design. As soon as a letter is deposited in the box a spring is released which drops a dial in front of the box bearing the letters - "U. S. Mail." This informs the next collector that there is something for him. He opens the box with a duplicate key and takes your letter to the nearest post-office station. Should you wish stamps of any denomination, or a money order, you have but to fill out forms with which you are furnished, place them in a special envelope, drop this in your box, and in a few hours at the longest your order is filled and placed in your box by the delivery postman. Your incoming mail is of course also placed in this box. Of all the improvements, however, for perfecting the city's mail service, the latest is the most important. This embraces a system of pneumatic tubes connecting the twenty-two branch post-offices with the main office, and also connecting the main office at Brooklyn by a tube line over the Bridges. Any one of these lines of tubes will have a capacity of 250,000 letters per hour, and they will do away with 70 per cent. of the wagon mail.
Carriers 8-16 inches in diameter and 24 inches long, holding 600 letters each, will be shot through these tubes under high pneumatic pressure. It is estimated that such a carrier can be sent from the main office to the Grand Central station, 3.1-2 miles, in 3 minutes.
It now takes the wagons at least 40 minutes for this trip. Mayor Strong broke ground for the first of the tube lines a few days ago. All will soon be in operation, the work of construction being remarkably expeditious. In the New York post-office 900,000,000 pieces of mail matter are handled annually, necessitating 2,500 employees.

JOB TYLER'S SUCCESS.

Aug. 25, brings the anniversary of the Tyler family gathering in Hartford, Ct. and perhaps a few more notes in regard to the good work Job has put in for his posterity since he was gathered to his fathers, may induce some forgetful descendant to take the trip.
The historian and secretary are still working on the different lines, regardless of wind or weather, and all traditions will be gladly received to brighten the pages of the forthcoming work. Through the courtesy of Mrs.
Ladd, the secretary resident in West Boxford, I have been able to connect most of the line who went out from us with those now resident.

The sons John and Samuel who went back to Mendon after the Indian outbreaks subsided, left large families from whom came the long and honorable records that are swelling the pages of the slowly growing Memorial Register. Samuel, the survivor of Bloody Brook counts Prof. Wm. S. Tyler of Amherst and his sons also with him on the college force, in his line.

John and Hanna Parker, (daughter of Nathan of Andover) who lived on the slope of old Carmel Hill, send us Hon. James M. Tyler of Brattleboro, Vt., of the Supreme Court. Hopestill and Mary Lovett may have left to us, in the descendants of Hanna Tyler and Robert Buswell, a few who will be found here in the family later.

James Tyler, Capt. with a succession of military titles of high rank comes down to Prof. Moses Coit Tyler of Cornell University, the Chairman of the new association. A few of us outside the family party could not tell whether one of our own Andover boys or the genial face of Professor Moses would be kept in our picture gallery the longest.

It was to the line of Moses the patriarch buried in the old North yard, that we are indebted for the stock we have saved to the town. Moses and Ruth Perley edged off to Wenham, the girls married Porters and sent us back through Lydia Tyler, Prof. Egbert Smyth to show us how the Tylers enjoy the sunset years.

John was a mariner and the residence of his descendant John Wood of Boxford has mementos of his voyage.
This family have the old Tyler site.
Near the driveway, Perley says the old house built by Moses in 1606 stood and there Job died. When Capt. John came home from sea to stay, he had to make room for the ten children growing up:
so he built the new house now standing there and gave it to the heir Gideon, living in the ancient home himself.
When Gideon added a bit in 1775 on his marriage with Mehitable Kimball, it was about right for son John and granddaughter Mehitable Tyler, the last of the name, to hold the place.
Her marriage with Capt. Enoch Wood filled the house with old memories, all twisted together with the Peabodys, Adams, Barkers and other kin of John and Rebecca and Enoch Wood who have watched that old lilac tree coil itself into a monstrous knot with added years. With other equally unique relics of the past, down to the well kept white oxen who also have a story attached, the whole estate is one of the most interesting and charming spots in Andover borders. From old deeds it is evident that these outlying farms were once part of a monstrous grant to syndicates of Englishmen with money to spare and through the industry of a few husbandmen along the line have been improved up to the ideal. A Boxford family are now to my mind about as well "connected" as any in the country, except in the way of communication with the Centre, and that is the reason I have been a long year trying to glean the Tyler fields.

Miss Bailey thought there were no Bradstreets left in Andover, but I am quite sure the very best of old Col.
Dudley's spirit came down through Margaret Bradstreet and her husband Job Tyler, the last to hold the old Governor's house and the large estate attached. In 1717, they sell Rowley land and in 1721 for 880£ a large estate to David Wood, physician, including several holdings, one from J. Storke, a clothier of Ramsey in Sutton across the water, sold in 1683. He sells later some of the Robt. Barnard land to Edward Gray, to John Osgood the tanner, site for building near the Pond, and to Timothy Johnson go Barnard and Bradstreet lands until in 1735 "Job IV" has grown up, and his parents for 600£ deed him a Bradford estate, and with Elizabeth Parker he starts off at the top.
In 1746 Job and Margaret who calls herself a spinster are off somewhere and send greetings to Boxford in quit claim. In 1764 Margaret has long been succeeded by the short reign of Priscilla Peabody and Mary, widow Brookbank of Georgetown, soothes his last fears. His sons, Dudley, Job, Asa and William get his garments, Margaret Foster, Hanna Spofford and Lucy Wallace all the things that were the

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1872 when I served my country as a private in Company A, 107th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown,

"LIKE A STREAK."SYSTEM OF PROVING THE SPEED OF A PROJECTILE.

The Projectile Is Fired Through Two Open Frames Placed One Hundred and Fifty Feet Apart—The Velocity Accurately Registered by Electricity.

It is now possible to tell the exact speed at which a projectile moves when it leaves the interior of one of the great guns which help Sandy Hook to frown on the world. This remarkable fact is brought about by new instruments never used before.

The method is as simple as can be. In its very simplicity lies its usefulness and practicality. Compared with the present test, the old ideas of the theoretical measurement of the velocity of a projectile are but child's play. Here for the first time is actually measured, even to the fraction of a second, the exact speed of a projectile as it shoots on its way of destruction. It is to this very end that the brains of the ordnance department of the navy have been working always. An ordnance officer must have accurate knowledge of the velocity of a projectile that he may predict its range and penetration and determine the accuracy of the gun. It is an absolute necessity that the power of destruction of the projectile, as well as the power of penetration at the point of completion of its journey through the air, should be known. Without such knowledge there can be no accurate plan of firing adopted, because to a certain extent it will be guesswork.

The great trouble has been to get some practical method to bring about the desired result which was susceptible of proof without being aboard the ship, for instance, that was fired at. The great guns of the navy are said to have a maximum range of nine miles. The fact of the matter is, however, that an 80 ton gun can never be tested at its maximum range power aboard a ship, for if it were the recoil would result in sinking the ship. The army officers have been laboring to do away with the theoretical range and obtain for themselves a positive knowledge of just what it was practical for the guns to do.

When the test takes place, two open frames are set 150 feet apart in front of the gun. Wires are stretched back and forth across these frames, making a screen through which the shot must pass. The wires in each screen form a complete electric circuit, which includes also an electric battery and an electro magnet. The projectile, after leaving the gun, flies through the wire in the first screen, interrupting the circuit and releasing the armature of the magnet. In a space of time so small as to be hardly conceivable the projectile has covered the distance between the two frames and pierced the wire in the second, interrupting its electrical current and releasing the armature of its magnet as in the first case.

The interval between the drops of these two armatures represents the time spent by the projectile in traveling 150 feet. This time is indicated by the chronograph in the laboratory near by. Wires run from each screen to the laboratory, which is fitted up with batteries and switchboard. The armature of the first electro magnet is an iron rod about three feet long, which is suspended vertically. This rod falls when the first screen is pierced. The armature of the second electro magnet is placed a little below the first, and when it is released it acts as a knife, and, striking the side of the falling rod, makes a slight mark.

The distance from this cut or mark to the end of the rod indicates the distance through which the rod has dropped while the projectile is passing from one screen to another. This forms the unit for the calculation of the projectile's velocity in feet per second. New explosives and high power guns have increased the initial velocity of projectiles wonderfully in the last few years. Projectiles may be expelled now with a force that will make them effective at a range far beyond ordinary eyesight.

Our Monetary Disease.

To safely and permanently maintain the gold standard requires the remodeling of our finances. The disease is the character of the money in the treasury and in the pockets of the people. It is in a banking system which congests currency in commercial centers while creating a dearth in country districts, which issues a currency which cannot expand when it ought and can when there is no necessity. It is in compelling the maintenance of $100,000,000 gold reserve to float a vast volume of paper money by the government, which cannot regulate its issues to meet the needs of commerce.

The disease cannot be cured by any makeshift.—Senator Donelson Caffery.

The New Summer Mushroom.

You like them. Why not try a frame or two of the new summer mushroom, Agaricus subreflexus? Make a hotbed of fresh horse droppings and a little loam from an old meadow, well worked together. When the first violent heat has pretty well subsided, insert the spawn in the same manner as one would that of the ordinary mushroom. This new kind can stand a good deal of heat and moisture—much more than the other, says American Gardening.

TROUBLES OF AN INVENTOR.OBTAINING A PATENT NOT THE LEAST OF THEM.

No Necessity For Hasty Action—Deliberation May Save Trouble and Money—Difference Between a Good Patent and a Poor One.

Regarding the oft repeated statement that delays are dangerous there is probably no field of work in which delays are less dangerous than in taking out patents. Few things justify being patented before they are tried. The United States patent laws are the most liberal and favorable to the inventor of any in the world, and by them he is allowed two years of public use of his invention prior to the date of his application without in any way prejudicing his right. In an ordinary case the inventor should show a drawing or a photograph of his invention or the machine itself to a few of his personal friends. The drawing should be signed and dated by these friends or a signed and dated statement that the machine was seen by them should be made. In case of any question of priority (interference) between him and another inventor, this drawing or statement will serve as proof to the patent examiner of the date to which he is entitled. The immediate filing of an application can do no more than this, as any patent is liable to be thrown into interference during the first two years of its life. The only reason for haste that can possibly be urged is the avoidance of interference, and this is accomplished just as well by the method described as by filing an application. Meanwhile the inventor's ardor will have a chance to cool down, with the probability in most cases that the expense of an application will be saved.

In general the obtaining of a patent is only a very small beginning toward getting money out of an invention. Only those who have tried it know the difficulty of enlisting the interest of manufacturers in putting these things upon the market. In general inventors without means and without opportunities for enlisting the interest of others should be very slow indeed about spending money on patents for inventions, no matter how promising they may be.

These statements only outline the beginning of an inventor's troubles. The allowance of a patent by the patent office is not law, and questions of infringement are always likely to arise if the invention is really valuable—questions which can only be settled by expensive litigation. It has been said that a patent is only "a license for a lawsuit," and when an inventor like Mr. Edison says, as he did not long since, that patents are a delusion, the average inventor may well think twice before spending his hard earned dollars in that way.

The cheap patent solicitor flourishes largely because the inexperienced do not understand the difference between a good patent and a poor one and imagine that because an invention is patented it is thereby protected—an impression which is erroneous. The solicitor who prepared the claims for Elias Howe's sewing machine saw that the essence of the invention lay in the "fluted reciprocating eye pointed needle" and worded his claim accordingly. Had he not been a superior man he would have made his claim to cover the various links in the chain of mechanism by which the stitch was formed, and the first inventor who succeeded in making a stitch by a different chain would have evaded the patent. This example illustrates in a few words the difference between a good claim and a poor one. There is no field in which one man seeks the expert advice and assistance of another—excepting that of medicine—in which it is more important to employ good talent than in the preparation of patents.—American Machinist

Sharpening Plow Points.

Plow points are often improperly sharpened. Some blacksmiths slope the plowshare all the way to the edge, like a cultivator shovel. An Orange Judd Farmer correspondent says: "A point so sharpened will always give trouble, running too deep, and if the ground is very hard the point will soon round up, the plow refusing ample penetration unless the ground is rather soft. In working the steel, it is better to heat it slowly. In tempering, heat to a cherry red and dip in water. When taken out, if a blue color, immerse again, and that will toughen it. If the plow is rusty, it is a good plan to oil the share often with kerosene. In painting ironwork, an excellent paint is made of graphite mixed with linseed oil. The color is black, the paint sticks well and forms a fine coating for tin roofs. Farmers should paint the sheetiron work on their binders and other machinery."

Tobacco Worms.

Tobacco growers are combating worms by using a spray of 1 pound of paris green to 100 gallons of water. Use a knapsack sprayer, with agitator attachment. If it is not desirable to use paris green on the plants, the moth that lays the eggs may be destroyed by taking the flowers of the jimson weed, placing them along the tobacco rows in an upright position and injecting into each bloom, with a small, clean can, some of the following mixture: One pint water, one-fourth pint honey, one ounce cobalt.—Florida Farmer.

Soda Instead of Potash.

Using soda instead of potash has been advised, but actual experiment appears to have proved that there is little in it. At the Rhode Island station applications of soda without potash have been far less beneficial than the use of potash without soda. Increasing quantities of potash used in connection with a given quantity of soda show a greater benefit than increasing quantities of soda used with a given amount of potash. On mangels and lettuce potash in the form of carbonate gave better results than in the form of chlorides.

Sarsaparilla Sense.

Any sarsaparilla is sarsaparilla. True. So any tea is tea. So any flour is flour. But grades differ. You want the best. It's so with sarsaparilla. There are grades. You want the best. If you understood sarsaparilla as well as you do tea and flour it would be easy to determine. But you don't. How should you? When you are going to buy a commodity whose value you don't know, you pick out an old established house to trade with, and trust their experience and reputation. Do so when buying sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been on the market 50 years. Your grandfather used Ayer's. It is a reputable medicine. There are many Sarsaparillas—but only one Ayer's. It cures.

Editorial Clinders.

"Thirty will try and three be chosen" would seem to be a very good text, for the story of the civil service examination at Pundarch this morning. We presume the ones who fail to receive an appointment will be much disappointed, but it is safe to say on general principles they will be the fittest subjects for congratulation, after all.

There is something very attractive to the general run of young men in the garb of an official, and the greater the power that the garb represents, the greater its attractiveness. Thus it is that the position of letter carrier with its salary of $600 to $1000 a year, is alluring to many men who would be no better off financially by the change from their present occupations. But the work for Uncle Sam is not all ease and comfort as three young men who are soon to be Andover letter carriers will find out, and again we say the lucky ones up at the civil service examination today, will be the ones who do not pass.

The prompt payment by the local council of the Royal Arcanum, of another death benefit, is a renewed illustration of the great benefit this excellent order and kindred ones, are to people of small means.

$3000 is a tidy sum to come into a home, deprived of its principal breadwinner, and the foresight of the one who insures and the excellent management of the several leading associations who thus care for the funds entrusted to them, are both to be commended.

Andover is fortunate in having two organizations in her midst, that are at the very front among the beneficiary organizations, the R. A. and the A. O. U. W., and the oldest one of the two, the Arcanum, may be justly proud of its long and honorable career in our town.

From all sections come the glad tidings of business activity. It has not come all at once, because it required time to restore things to the condition in which they were before the country tried the disastrous experiment of democratic misrule. As after a long run of typhoid fever, a slow building up process is required to restore an invalid to health and strength, so the country after a seige of unadulterated democracy is now building up under healthful influences of a republican administration and a protective tariff. The progress of recovery from this point will be rapid.

Those keepers of the highway, who sought to compel three bicyclists to pay for permission to walk across the public road, being rebuilt on the town line, should be hauled up before a man, with a license to demand fees, like Judge Poor. There would be no dissatisfaction if his demand was so large, that a few months imprisonment would be the alternative. There seems to be an epidemic of foot-paddism these days.

Evidences certainly do multiply to prove that the great John Sherman is losing his grasp upon the fitness of things. His comments on the murder of Canovas, in its bearing upon Cuban affairs, show a remarkable lack of tact and judgement, considering the position Mr. Sherman occupies. His retirement cannot be long in coming.

There are 250,000 taxed bicycles in Chicago; how many untaxed ones are there in Andover?

"A railway contractor recently advertised for three hundred wooden sleepers (ties.) By return mail he received a letter from a neighboring clergyman, offering the whole of his congregation on reasonable terms."—The Interior.

At a meeting of Locomotive Engineers the following toast was offered: "To our Mothers—the only faithful tenders who never misplaced a switch."—Springfield Union.

They Demanded Toll.

Three well known wheelmen were held up last Sunday, not far from the Andover line, where the state highway is being constructed. Journeying from home they came to the highway mentioned and because of hard riding they walked across the stretch being repaired, as they had done on a previous occasion. On reaching the same spot on the return journey the riders were met by two men who refused to allow them to pass over the road, claiming that they had been stationed there by the "boss" to prevent people from crossing the highway. They subsequently, however, offered to dismount the alleged "orders" and to allow the men to pass upon the payment of money. When asked to stipulate the amount they graciously left that to the consciences of their would-be victims. The trio refused point blank to fee the embryo highwaymen and in consequence were obliged to reach home by a round-about road. The only regret is that the rascally "tollmen" were not handed over to the police, before they succeeded in unseating others.

Merrimack Valley Christian Endeavor Day.

The Christian Endeavor picnic promoted by the Andover C. E. Union will be held at Glen Forest next Wednesday, August 20. An address will be delivered at two o'clock by Rev. W. P. Launders of Middleton, the subject being the San Francisco convention. The Rev. W. Farnham of Salem is also expected to speak.

The committee on sports have arranged for races in the morning and a ball game in the afternoon. The colors for the day are purple and orange.

Andover is expected to send a large delegation.

Thomas Bentley's Annual.

Twenty-six "fishermen" left Andover last Friday afternoon for Marblehead, composing Thomas Bentley's annual fishing party. The weather director made things especially favorable during the whole trip, and for this those who went through last year's sad experiences were devoutly thankful. On the arrival at Marblehead the always jolly old skipper, Louis Hamlin, was on hand with the Lila Bell. After a room on shore the party went aboard and amused themselves in various ways. About midnight Frank Morse served up one of his boat clam chowders and the way it disappeared was a caution.

The start for the fishing grounds was made about 4 a. m. and under a fair breeze was reached about 7. Lines were eagerly over when the dog fish began to bite ravenously and the party looked disappointed but despite the fact that over 300 of these "terrors to other fish" were hauled in, butchered, and thrown overboard, about 350 pounds of fine pollock, haddock, and cod were pulled in. The sea was as calm as a mill pond, no one experienced the unpleasantness of seasickness and it was a jolly crowd all day long. Lines were drawn up and anchor weighed about one, and a strong breeze springing up a fine sail was taken around Egg Rock, off Nahant.

There were many amusing incidents occurring all day and there was a great time when the "kodak fiend" of the party snapped the old skipper. Capt. Gen. A. Holt of Steamer 1 captured the prize for the most fish, landing ten pretty ones. Thomas Bentley secured the prize for the largest, a huge pollock, which was not weighed. The party arrived home early Saturday evening.

New England Fair in Portland.

Have you thought what a large undertaking it is to arrange for an exhibition like our time honored New England Fair, which is to be held at Rigby Park, Portland, next week, for there must be an ever ending round of amusements besides the usual attractions. The department devoted to racing has offered $18,000 in prize money, and includes events for pacing and trotting in every class. Cycle racing of course has its usual prominent place among the list of sports, and several hundred dollars will be expended in prizes.

The firemen will gather in muster at the Park during the fair, and the premiums are of sufficient value to bring out all of the crack companies of this section.

The celebrated Troop F. United States Cavalry of Fort Ethan Allen will be one of the features of the fair, for these cavalrymen have the reputation of being the best drilled organization in the country.

Uncle Sam will be represented at these festivities by no less than six of the Mammoth Cruisers which form the North Atlantic Squadron.

The floral, dairy and agricultural exhibits will far surpass any previous attempts, while the cattle show, and the usual requisites pertaining to the agricultural show will be retained.

There will be parades, concerts, balloon ascensions, parachute jumping and a thousand and one ways for enjoying ones self.

One of the great attractions is, of course, the Midway, and here you will find a greater variety of features than was ever brought together in New England.

The whole exhibition is the grandest event in the fair season of the Eastern States, and it is safe to say that a hundred thousand persons will visit the fair during the week.

Every station on the Boston & Maine Railroad has on sale reduced rate tickets to Rigby Park, and information concerning trains, can be obtained at station ticket offices.

"Canst thou minister to a mind diseased?" asks Macbeth. Certainly, my lord, the condition of the mind depends largely, if not solely on the condition of the stomach, liver, and bowels, for all of which complaints Ayer's Pills are the "sovereignest thing on earth."

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

Thirty-one Local Applicants for Clerks and Carriers in Postal Service.

The Pundarch Free school building presented an animated appearance this morning in spite of the fact that it is the middle of the summer vacation season. Over thirty young men and women most of whom had been scholars at Andover's high school, gathered in the familiar school room to take a civil service examination with a view to joining the army of workers in the employ of the United States government. As TOWNSMAN readers know, the examination was held for clerks and carriers in the classified post-office service, made necessary by the recent action of the post-master general, in granting a free postal delivery system to Andover.

The examination was conducted by E. D. Bailey, assistant chief examiner of the civil service bureau, assisted by George T. Abbot, and Miss Winifred Burt of the local examining board. There were 31 applicants who took the examination which began at 9.15 A. M.

The list is as follows:

George C. Duane, Timothy A. O'Brien, Charles W. Richardson, Albert S. Farnham, Ira Buxton, Frank H. Anderson, James O. Bradshaw, Abraham L. Gates, Dan Hilton, Wilson Knipe, Walter I. Morse, Herbert W. Foster, Michael T. Moynihan, Frank H. Fiske, Ralph B. Clement, John H. MacDonald, James Calum, John A. Burt, William B. Cheever, Alexander D. Lamont, George W. Bailey, Daniel A. Collins, Lawley D. Pomeroy, Joseph H. Hunt, Thomas J. Madden, James H. Hovey, Louis A. Dane, James Feeney.

Of this number all applied for positions as carriers, with the exception of Miss French and Messrs. Dane and Lamont, who applied for a clerkship. The examination paper was the same for all.

Four and one half hours were allowed for the examination which included tests in Orthography, Arithmetic, Letter-writing, Penmanship, Copying from plain copy, Geography of the United States and reading addresses. The papers were sent sealed from Washington and not opened until the applicants had taken their positions in the examining room. Immediately after the examination was over, Mr. Bailey securely sealed the papers of the several applicants and the package was forwarded to Washington, where the papers will be marked and three appointments made for carrier by the Post Master general and one for substitute carrier. No appointments will be made for clerk as there is no vacancy in that department of the local office at present. Post-master Goldsmith will be notified of these appointments within a few weeks and he will notify the successful applicants.

Examiner Bailey told the TOWNSMAN reporter this morning that he felt confident Andover would have free delivery by October 1st as that was what he was given to understand by the authorities at Washington. Mr. Bailey when questioned about the method of marking papers, said that one important feature that would convince applicants of the fairness of the marks, is that even the names of those examined are not known by those who consider the papers until after all have been marked, each applicant being designated by a number for the sake of convenience.

"In order that there shall be no possibility for favoritism by postmasters in the appointment of letter carriers at places where free delivery is to be established," he said, "the laws and regulations have been amended so that the selection shall be made at Washington by a postmaster general. In the past, the local postmaster has had the privilege of making recommendations, but hereafter the whole list of eligibles, as made up from the examination, will be sent to the department at Washington."

The following extracts from pamphlets, sent out by the civil service commission, will be of interest:

AGE LIMITATIONS.

The age limitations are as follows: Letter carrier, between 21 and 40 years; all other positions, 18 or over.

ELIGIBLE APPLICANTS.

No person who is an applicant for examination, or who is an eligible, in any other branch of the classified service—departmental, internal revenue, custom-house, or Government printing—can at the same time be an applicant for examination in the post office service; and no person who is an applicant for examination in one classified post-office, or who is eligible for appointment in one classified post office, can at the same time be an applicant for examination in another classified post-office.

RE-EXAMINATIONS.

If not otherwise barred, persons who pass an examination, but fail to receive an appointment, and persons who fail to pass, may file new applications and be re-examined after six months. Reexaminations other than those named above will be granted only in very exceptional cases, in which injustice has for any reason been done or suffered, and in such cases the request for reexamination must be accompanied by a sworn statement of the alleged facts upon which it is based. A simple statement that the applicant did not do himself justice will not be regarded as sufficient ground for allowing a reexamination.

CERTIFICATIONS AND APPOINTMENTS.

When there is a vacancy to be filled, the board of examiners certifies the proper officer, from the proper register of eligibles, the names of the three persons graded, highest of the sex called for, and from the three a selection must be made. Only three certifications of a name are allowed. Each name remains eligible on the register one year unless the person is sooner appointed, or unless the name is dropped for other good reason.

No prediction can be made of the time or of the probability of an appointment. Each applicant by his examination decides his own standing, and hence his own prospects for an appointment.

ABSOLUTE APPOINTMENTS.

Every appointment is made for a probationary period of six months, at the end of which time, if the conduct and capacity of the person appointed be satisfactory, his retention in the service is equivalent to absolute appointment.

FALSE STATEMENTS.

An eligible who has made a false statement in his application, or who has been guilty of fraud or deceit in any matter connected with his application or examination, or who has been guilty of crime or of infamous or notoriously disgraceful conduct, may be excluded from examination and certification.

REMOVAL.

The authority and duty of removal are left undisturbed by the civil service law and rules, except that a removal can not legally be made because a person in the service has refused to be coerced in political action, or has refused to contribute for political purposes, or has refused to render political service. In making any reduction of force in the classified service, those persons must be retained who, being equally qualified, have been honorably discharged from the military or the naval service of the United States, and the widows and minor children of such persons.

The State Highway.

Work on the state highway near the North Reading line will under way and those in charge estimate that the mile of road to be built will be completed in two months.

Nothing has been done in North Reading yet, all the work so far having been confined to the Andover portion. Thirteen teams have been in use cutting down the grades of the hill just this side of the line and filling in a stretch of a quarter-mile nearer Andover. The hill has been cut down about four feet and the low road will be raised seven feet in some places.

The crusher has been placed in position but it will not be run for about two weeks. The plant was brought from Martha's Vineyard where it has been stationed the past three years. It is run by a 15 horse power engine. There are two big ledges near where the crusher is stationed and it is intended to blast these and use the rock thus obtained, as it would be difficult to draw rock there from any distance.

The road is closed to travel now and all teams have to turn off at the old well, about three quarters of a mile this side of the town limits.

Cricket.

The Billerica cricket team proved easy opponents for the local eleven last Saturday and received a crushing defeat by the score of 111 to 14. The visitors were at the mercy of the Andover bowlers but in the field they put up a plucky game.

For Andover, Bruce kept up his brilliant work with the ball and had six wickets at the cost of three runs while at the bat Saunders showed good form and batted out 64 runs.

To-morrow on the cricket grounds the Andover and Merrimack elevens will play their return match. This will no doubt be the game of the season as the teams are well matched and both clubs will put strong elevens in the field. Andover will be represented as follows: Haddon, A. Saunders, Pearson, Capt. Bruce, Angus, Rhodes, Bottomly, Wilkie, McDermott, Sullivan, Porter.

Millinery Bargains Abound.

There are all sorts of Trimmed Hats and Untrimmed Hats, Flowers, Wings and every millinery thing that is needed. The season waxes and prices are wonderfully reduced. The past week's selling of millinery has been a revelation of surprising values to our public.

Good by prices have been placed on every article. Not a cent of profit are you to pay. Just cost and even less on eminently desirable millinery.

You'll not want to miss this chance. Come! Look and you'll be eager to possess these good things at the saving afforded.

"Way down upon the Farm."

Lovers of real rusticity flocking to favorite vacation haunts. One hears very little nowadays about "abandoned farms." The farms of New England just at present are anything but deserted, for the great and growing colony of summer "boarders" is now swarming all over the face of smiling nature, from Hampton beach to the Green Mountains and from Mt. Wachusett to the Appalachian river, fairly besieging the hospitable, good-natured farmer and reveling in the outdoor joys that only New England can provide in perfection.

It is by no means only at the better known and "popular" resorts that the would-be vacationist can have an all-around good time. The former places are all right for the wealthy and more fastidious, but even people of means and social prominence often prefer to take their summer siesta in the less pretentious precincts of a farm or country boarding house.

There are hundreds of each of these scattered throughout the extensive area covered by the multitudinous branches of the Boston & Maine Railroad, where a delightful rest, accompanied by good board and unconventional surroundings may readily be secured. Make up your mind how far away from the city you would like to go, how much you care to pay for transportation, and then get a copy of the Boston & Maine Excursion Book for 1907 and select your location. This handy brochure contains a complete list of the different places suited to vacation purposes, together with the various boarding houses and their prices. It will be mailed to any address free on application to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston.

The West church Sunday School held its annual picnic yesterday at Canobie Lake. About 75 people were present and enjoyed the day to the utmost.

The Poetic "Provinces."

Their popularity, like the better times keeps constantly growing.

The popularity of "the Provinces" is constantly on the increase, and interest in them on the part of intending tourists is by no means confined to the east. Indeed, many people are nowadays journeying from the central and far western portion of the United States to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, there to find sweet relief from the heat and monotony of the interior, as well as to revel in conditions of social life, climate and scenery entirely different from those they have been accustomed to.

Even in the case of New Englanders—thousands of whom make their summer headquarters in the Maritime Provinces—the change in these respects is a marked one, and largely explains the popularity of this favored part of the continent with our people. There is a potent attraction about this delightfully cool, invigorating and romantic region, especially in that part of it known as "the land of Evangeline," that invariably makes one visit to it the precursor of dozens more.

August and September are two of the best months in which to make a trip to the provinces. The season is a trifle later than in New England, and the rock girt British possessions are then in the height of their climatic glory. A tour by rail to St. John, varied, perhaps by side trips up the St. John River, across the Bay of Fundy to Digby, the Annapolis Valley, the "Evangeline" country, Halifax, and, if possible, to Cape Breton and Prince Edward Island—this trip, or any part of it, will prove a most delightful and instructive vacation experience to any sincere lover of out door life.

The expenditure of a two cent postage stamp is all that is necessary in order to possess one's self of any desired information respecting these provincial tours, their cost, duration, etc. The passenger department of the Boston & Maine Railroad, Union Station, Boston, will make prompt and full reply to any such inquiries; and it is scarcely necessary to add that the facilities for "getting there" offered this season by the Boston & Maine represent the acme of comfort and celerity.

Indigestion is often taken for consumption. The word consumption means wasting away, and dyspeptics often waste away as badly as consumptives.

If the latter is your trouble, take Shaker Digestive Cordial. This will help you to digest your food and stop your loss of flesh.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is made from herbs, barks and the juices of fruit, by the well-known Shakers at Mount Lebanon. It possesses great tonic and digestive powers.

Shaker Digestive Cordial has cured many supposed consumptives (who were really dyspeptics) by simply helping their stomachs to digest their food, thus giving nourishment and new strength.

Upwards of 275 persons attended the "Fourth Annual Excursion" of the Union Congregational Sunday school to Lynn beach last Saturday. The party left the Vale on the 7.48 train for Wakefield where they were conveyed by special electric direct to Lynn beach, arriving there about 9.45. Bathing, base-ball, and the usual beach amusements helped to make the day pass only too quickly. The party returned to the Vale on the 7.26 train. It was without doubt the most successful excursion ever run from the Vale.

A better day could not have been asked for.

The hearty welcome accorded the excursionists by the Vale people who are spending the summer at the beach was thoroughly appreciated by all.

Rev. Mr. Roberts proved himself a star ball player.

Rev. Harry Appleman while running on the beach tripped and fell and striking on his shoulder broke his collar bone. He was attended by a physician and is doing as well as could be expected.

All enjoyed the fine ride on the electric from Wakefield.

The party left amid the adieus of three young men, who could not forego the pleasure of remaining longer at the beach, and reports have it that the beauties of Marblehead were also fully enjoyed by them the next day.

New England Fair Notes.

The Thirty-fourth Annual New England Fair, to be held at Portland during the week beginning August 16, promises to be by far the biggest exhibition ever given by the Society. $30,000 are offered in premiums, the entries are open to the world, and the list of attractions is larger and finer and contains more in the way of novelty than any yet presented. Portland is preparing to entertain a hundred thousand people.

Six great warships, the finest in the United States Navy, and led by the flagship New York will float in Portland Harbor during the week of the New England Fair at Rigby Park. It will be the finest naval demonstration ever seen on the New England coast.

It is said that the attractions of the midway at Rigby Park, Portland, during the week of the New England Fair, will excel in interest and novelty anything of the sort ever seen. The great show will be cosmopolitan in its scope.

The eyes of horsemen are eagerly turning toward Rigby Park this year. The shrewdest of them believe that the two minute mark will be reached here in August.

LAWRENCE.

A LIVELY CONTEST.

There are numerous candidates for the position of County Commissioner.

Again this year the county commissioner contest will be of particular interest to Lawrence voters, for, as has already been announced, two candidates from this city are in the field for the republican nomination. Senator Derbyshire, backed by his friends who have supported him loyally in his candidacy for house and the senate, and depending somewhat, too, upon the prestige which his terms in the legislative bodies have given him, is making an active canvass for the position. Thomas Cogswell, who a few years ago fell before the combination, is again determined to test the political pulse and for many weeks his pickets have been earnestly at work in various parts of the county promoting his interests.

Of course, the contest between these two candidates will center in Lawrence and the suburban towns. For either to stand any show in the convention, he must have practically the solid vote of the delegates from this section. Lawrence, the Andovers, and Methuen have little in common with the remainder of the county, except the county commissioner'ship, and the result is that candidates from this district are obliged to cope with various combinations, which grow out of contests for other offices. For instance, Lawrence and the three towns mentioned are grouped in the councillor district with Lowell and Woburn, and their suburbs, while practically all of the remaining cities and towns of Essex county are numbered in another district. It has been customary to hold the councillor convention of the latter district and the county convention together and it is claimed that more than once the contest in the former has had a bearing upon that in the latter. The suggestion has been made that these gatherings should be at different times and in different places. Such an agreement would doubtless meet with approval among Lawrence voters.

The fact that Lawrence and vicinity are neglected in the distribution of office has been frequently commented upon at length and there is no need of a repetition of the grounds for this assertion. Candidates from here have stood little show with the combines which have figured so prominently in past conventions. Certain conditions exist this year, however, which should work in favor of a Lawrence aspirant. It was a matter of general comment last year that the candidacy of E. H. George for clerk of courts was opposed by County Commissioner Bishop, who realized that, with one county office holder a Haverhill man, his own chances of re-nomination and election would be weakened.

No it is but natural to expect that the George forces will oppose Bishop, and Senator Derbyshire hopes to land a portion of the delegates in the down river city. Although Mr. Cogswell has friends working for him in other places, the outcome of the caucuses in Lawrence and neighboring towns will influence him largely in carrying the fight into the convention.

In talking with a reporter the other day he said that he was in the contest to stay; but if, in the caucuses, Mr. Derbyshire received a large portion of the delegates he should end his efforts there. He considered it folly for a candidate from this section to go into the convention unless he had a substantial backing from his own territory.

J. Loring Woodfall of Rockport, Nelson Cummings of Merrimack, with possibly Special Commissioner Scribner of Lynn and John M. Garland of Amesbury are other aspirants for the place. All these things taken together the county convention promises to be one of the liveliest in many years.

Renewed Activity at the Arlington.

It is good news that went out to the wool sorters at the Arlington mills this morning when messengers called upon the wool sorters who have been idle a short time with directions to report at once.

This means renewed activity for another great Lawrence mill.

While generalities may do for "hard-time" organs like our Tribune neighbor, facts like these say that the flood is near at hand.

The Pacific booms, the Washington booms, the Arlington booms and soon all Lawrence booms under protection and republicanism. [Ed.]

Arranging Check Lists.

City Clerk Kimball is now engaged in arranging the check lists, assisted by one of the clerks in his office. This is by no means an easy undertaking. The assessors' records show many changes among the laboring class each year. Men go away and others come and it is necessary to remove the former from the lists while the latter are to be substituted. Then there are changes from one precinct to another and various other details. City Clerk Kimball has had a valuable experience in this work, however, which means the avoidance of much trouble when the registrars of voters begin their sessions.

Base Ball Notes.

One of the popular amateur ball players in Lawrence this year in Lawrence is Geo. N. Heald who is playing second base for the Riverides. His batting and fielding while in this city with that team, won the admiration of the ball cranks. —Newmark Courier.

Nervous debility is a common complaint, especially among women. The best medical treatment for this disorder is a persistent course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to cleanse and invigorate the blood. This being accomplished, nature will do the rest.

It is probable that another special town meeting will be called within a few days to see what action the town will take looking to the establishment of an electric lighting plant. A petition has been circulated for signatures asking for a meeting for that purpose.

The Danvers & Beverly electric railroad has aroused unfavorable comment by refusing to transport police officers free when in discharge of their duty and Saturday morning dropped off four firemen, who jumped on the car in order to get to a fire more quickly. The road is conducted under a franchise granted by the city of Beverly and the city officers are entitled to the ordinary courtesies, they consider.

President John F. Hurley held a two hours' interview yesterday morning with Boyd B. Jones, United States district attorney, regarding the Salem coal combine. After hearing the statement of the president of the water board the district attorney decided that the case did not come under the provision of Chap. 847 of the Acts of 1890, which provides penalties for combinations against commerce, etc., between the several states, but that it was a matter which should be referred to the local district attorney. Undoubtedly the matter will be referred to District Attorney White for presentation to the grand jury.

While sleeping quietly in his little cradle Sunday night, the infant child of a Mrs. Manthorn, living on South Main street in Ipswich, was attacked by a rat, and before being frightened away the rodent had gnawed the little one's finger, lacerating the flesh in a frightful manner. The mother had not been abed a great while when she was awakened by the cries of her baby from its cradle near by. Investigation at first failed to show any cause for the piercing shrieks of the little one, but blood on the clothes attracted the attention of the mother to the child's hand, when she was horrified to see the little finger literally chewed up. A doctor was summoned and pronounced it the work of rats. He dressed the wound, and the child is resting comfortably.

PIANOS

Few people have the courage to buy a cheap piano after carefully examining a really fine one. A pretty casing is often designed to sell a poor musical instrument. These well known makes combine beauty outside and worth within. Among the first-class ones these three are the most popular—not low priced and inferior, but cheap for their superior quality. These pianos can be purchased from $300 to $400, according to size and case, quality just the same. We will rent you one of these famous instruments for three months delivered right in your home for $15. Medium grade pianos for $12. Cheap pianos for $10. If you decide the piano is all we claim for it and decide to purchase, the rent will be allowed as payment on your instrument.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more reliable or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robery, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo., and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years he should certainly know. For sale by Arthur Bliss, Andover, C. N. Shattuck, M. D., Ballard Vale, Murphy's Drug store, No. Andover.

One of Grant's Victories.

One of General Grant's greatest victories was not won in war, but in times of profound peace. On April 28, 1874, he vetoed an inflation bill which had passed both houses of congress, by decided majority, and back of which were many eminent Republican politicians who imagined that they saw sure defeat ahead for their party unless they made concessions to those clamoring for "more money." The pressure for the bill was not all political. Many timid business men urged the president to sign the bill in order to "stop agitation." In this trying situation President Grant showed patriotism wholly above party spirit, and a clear conception of sound financial principles, unobscured by shortsighted notions of immediate business expediency.

He vetoed the bill because in theory it would produce inflation. "The theory," he declared, "in my belief is a departure from the true principles of finance, national interest, national obligations to creditors, congressional promises, party pledges on the part of both political parties and of personal views and promises made by me in every annual message sent to congress and in each inaugural address."

So far from being a "settlement" the bill invited agitation. "Should it fail to create the abundance of circulation expected of it, the friends of the measure, particularly those out of congress, would clamor for such inflation as would give the expected relief." And he defined his general principle in these pregnant words, "I am not a believer in any artificial method of making paper money equal to coin when the coin is not owned or held ready to redeem the promises to pay, for paper money is nothing more than promise to pay and is valuable exactly in proportion to the amount of coin that it can be converted into."

The monetary battles of this country are not yet all fought. Grant's words and acts should inspire those engaged in the present struggle.
